The New Medicare Prescription Drug Plan

As wonderful as all the news surrounding the new Medicare Prescription Drug Plan sounds, it still won't save that much money for most retired folks. Here's what the government's web site says:

“Medicare's new prescription drug coverage will typically pay over half of your drug costs next year, for a monthly premium. It will also provide peace of mind because it protects you once your out-of-pocket drug spending is more than $3600 in a year.”

Note that you'll still have to spend $3,600 just to have the new plan kick in plus you have to pay a monthly premium to be enrolled! On top of that, the true projected savings are barely 10% per prescription.

The LowerMyMeds plan is FREE to its members – all it does is save you money.
